

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my interest in the DevOps Engineer position at Pollard Banknote Limited, as advertised on LinkedIn. As a fresh-graduate computer scientist, I am ready to bring my passion for software development and my dedication to learning to your team.

In my internship experience, I was responsible for setting up and structuring a RESTful API server using Node.js and Express.js, and integrating the server with a Postgres database. I also managed the server deployment on AWS Elastic Beanstalk, and monitored server performance using AWS CloudWatch. I worked closely with front-end developers to ensure seamless communication between the front-end and back-end systems. This experience has equipped me with the skills to work effectively in a team environment and to deliver high-quality software solutions.

In my academic projects, I have excelled in the role of a front-end developer, proficiently utilizing HTML, CSS, and JavaScript to build web applications. Moreover, I possess experience in React.js and Next.js frameworks to develop a web application as well as using Tailwind for the styling. While I may not have formal work experience yet, I am confident that my ability to quickly grasp new concepts, coupled with my hands-on experience in various academic projects, makes me well-prepared to tackle the challenges of this position.

Thank you for considering my application. I am looking forward to having further discussions about how my skills and experiences align with the needs of your team.

Sincerely,

Yee Tsung Kao